Employment Opportunity

Project Representative / Drinking Water Operator

Fast-growing firm seeks a project representative for water and sewer installation projects. Ideal candidate would have 5 years experience in utility / pipeline construction, and possess a good working knowledge of construction practices relating to public works and utilities. Must have ability to read and interpret blueprints, plans, and other construction documents. Ability to work independently and in all weather conditions a must. Possession of a drinking water license a plus. We are looking for a team player to grow with us. Please send resume and letter of interest with salary requirements to: Sarian Company, Inc. PO Box 2011, Mashpee, MA 02649. Please - no phone inquiries.

Drinking Water Week May 4-10, 2003

For more than 30 years, the American Water Works Association has celebrated Drinking Water Week with its members. In 1988, AWWA brought the event to the attention of our government and formed a coalition along with the League of Women Voters, the Association of State Drinking Water Administrators, and the US Environmental Protection Agency. Rep. Robert Roe and Sen. Dennis DeConcini subsequently sponsored a resolution to name the first week of May as National Drinking Water Week, and an information kit was distributed to the media and to more than 10,000 utilities. Willard Scott, the Today Show weatherman, was featured in public service announcements aired between May 2 and 8. The week-long observance was declared in joint congressional resolution and signed by then President Ronald Reagan.

AWWA Offers Online Training

The American Water Works Association Online Institute offers Web-based training, professional development, and CEUs 24 hours a day, 365 days a year via the Internet. They've got more than 35 self-paced courses in water operations, occupational safety, and human resources that can be started any time and completed anywhere. Visit the AWWA Online Institute at www.awwa.org/learnonline.
